The eight rules that make a draft read human instead of generated.

A one-page field guide to the deterministic gate inside grai. Every rule runs in your browser, on your machine, with no account and no upload.

Measured on 134,522 founder posts, 2023 to 2026 · burstiness floor CV >= 0.32

01

THE CADENCE FLOOR (CV >= 0.32).

Sentence length is a distribution, not a vibe. Below a coefficient of variation of 0.32 the rhythm is a metronome, and a metronome reads synthetic before any word does.

02

CONTRASTIVE NEGATION BAN.

The shape is not the point, the shape is the tell. Constructions like it is not X, it is Y stage a reveal that carries no information, so the gate strips the staging.

BREAK SYNTHETIC SYMMETRY.

Three parallel clauses look tidy and read mechanical. The audit flags the symmetry and forces a break in the pattern.

04

KILL FORMULAIC OPENERS.

Here is why, in today's world, let us be honest: each one delays the first real sentence. The first line has to carry a claim, not an announcement.

05

PURGE TEMPLATE BULLETS.

Arrow bullets and checklist scaffolding are a model habit, not a writing habit. The gate removes the scaffolding and keeps the argument.

06

ERADICATE EMPTY SLOGAN TRIADS.

No noise. No filler. Just clarity. That cadence is a slogan generator, and the audit counts it as a failed rule.

07

THE THREE EDITORIAL GALLEYS.

THE SCALPEL cuts a claim down to one sentence a reader can repeat at dinner. THE BROADSHEET builds the long argument and gives it room to breathe. THE LEDGER turns the whole thing into a list with receipts, which is the galley to reach for when a client asks what you actually changed. Pick the structure before you draft, never after.

CRYPTOGRAPHIC PROOF.

The A4 Client Voice DNA Dossier prints the measured profile and a SHA-256 hash over the profile and audit payload, so a client can verify the deliverable without trusting you.
